

DANGEROUS WORLD

INT. BEDROOM - NIGHT

PAULINA (12) gaunt face, long straight hair stares out through the window to the city streets way down below.

PAULINA

You always told me to be careful of the world outside... There's only evil out there you said...

She glances over her shoulder, smiles.

PAULINA

Good advice... Nothing bad ever happened to me out there. Always kept to myself. Stayed away from everyone else.....

She turns back to the window. Gazes down to the city night-life where prostitutes prance the sidewalks, drunks occupy doorways, cars snake down the road checking out the "scene".

PAULINA

So many evil deeds in this world... So much pain... People preying on the weak... forcing them to do things... things they don't want to do...

Another glance over her shoulder.

PAULINA

You never told me about the danger inside. The pain inflicted on you from nearby... inside the these walls... By your loved ones...

She gazes outside again. Her face hardens.

PAULINA

I'm ready for the world outside...

Another look over her shoulder. A sad smile.

The entire room is splattered in blood. On a dresser in front of a mirror sits the decapitated head of a woman about 35. Eyes bulge out, the tongue protrudes in an obscene manner.

Paulina's body is soaked in blood.

PAULINA

You prepared me for everything.
